Cheri Larsh Arellano

In a career that has spanned two decades, Cheri Larsh Arellano's photographic adventures have taken her from her hometown of Miami to Oregon to Los Angeles and now to her present home in the San Francisco Bay Area. Cheri began her career in fashion and product portraiture and now finds greatest enjoyment in travel and commercial photography. In 2001, Cheri started Conscious Creative, a creative agency dedicated to sustainability www.consciouscreative.com. There, she currently serves as its creative director and photographer. Her work has appeared on websites, printed collateral, and magazines such as VegNews, AAA Travel, Drinks, and she has won awards from PDN Pix. Cheri's photos dive straight into the soul of her subject, with rich, vibrant colors that burst with life. She is committed to increasing awareness around sustainable business practices and enjoys capturing images that impact our daily lives.

Graham Law

Graham Law was born and raised in Marin County. He is the long-time owner and operator of Seawood Photo, a unique and popular camera store in San Anselmo. Seawood has been in business for over 60 years offering new, used, and collectible cameras. The store has won Pacific Sun's "Best Camera Store in Marin" and is in their "Hall Of Fame" for winning it 5 consecutive times. Graham has also been a commercial product and advertising photographer for over 25 years, shooting for many local Bay Area businesses. He is an expert in photo restoration as well. He lives with his wife Melissa and their four children in Penngrove, California.

Craig Solin

Craig Solin has been a nature and wildlife photographer for the past 20 years. Born and raised in Northern California, he has spent countless hours photographing the Marin and Sonoma hills. As an open space ranger for Marin County Parks, he spends his days protecting the natural environment so that we may have these beautiful spaces in perpetuity and studying the change of seasons with his camera in tow. Craig lives in Petaluma with his wife Erin. You can view many of his works at www.wildeyphotography.com.
