SUMMARY: On May 25, 2016, the County, acting in partnership with Marin towns and cities, was awarded a State grant from the Systemic Safety Analysis Report Program (SSARP). This grant provided funds for a systemic traffic safety analysis that evaluated and identified high-risk road corridors, high-risk intersections, and locations of repeated pedestrian and bicycle collisions within the Marin County region. The scope of the study included both the unincorporated area of Marin County and the incorporated cities and towns within Marin County. The work has culminated in the development of the 2018 Marin County Travel Safety Plan.

Disability Access

On average, 44 collisions occur each year on local roads in the Marin County region where someone is killed or seriously injured (KSI). The study identified operational measures and potential capital improvements to address high-risk collision locations. Identification of potential traffic safety improvements have assisted in the preparation of three Highway Safety Improvement Program grant applications that were submitted to Caltrans in August. Collision trends were also identified in the study. For instance, in unincorporated Marin County solo vehicle crashes were the most common crash type and represented 23% of all KSI collisions. This information will aide public works staff and law enforcement in the development of education and enforcement programs to target behaviors that are contributing to this and other identified trends. It is anticipated that the 2018 Marin County Travel Safety Plan will be a key document in the preparation of future Public Works work programs for each local jurisdiction.
